PERFORMANCE HIGHLIGHTS FOR 2024

HUMAN RIGHTS AND ACCOUNTABILITY

1.0

LEGAL AID SUPPORT TO VULNERABLE WORKERS

Legal aid service provision has remained our core service to the vulnerable and marginalized workers for the last 24 years of existence. Rights violations for poor, vulnerable and marginalized workers in Uganda has remained rampant in Uganda and the situation continues to worsen due to increased levels of unemployment and under employment, majority of the labour absorbed in the informal sector which remains insufficiently supported, not regulated and characterised with noncompliance with the labour and employment standards leading to multiple rights violations and abuses of workers. The 2021 global rights index report ranks Uganda at 4 out of 5+ (5+ is worst).

Our legal aid service provision therefore strives to increase access to remedial services by the vulnerable and marginalized workers; increase awareness about the rights of vulnerable and marginalized workers among the workers, communities and duty bearers

In 2024, we supported 457 poor, vulnerable and marginalized workers to access remedial services through our legal aid clinics located in Kampala in central region, Iganga in Eastern region and Lira in Northern region. These services included representation in mediation, negotiation, counseling and reconciliation, before tribunals, labour offices, local council, at police and in courts of law particularly the industrial court of Uganda, a court that handles all labour related matters.

This year, we registered an increase in the number of female beneficiaries reporting and seeking legal support from 25% last year to 39% this year. This was attributed to the concerted awareness raising initiatives that target female workers in markets, at plantations and factories across the districts of operation. Majority 97% of the cases reported were labour and employment related disputes indicating the relevance of PLA's services in the labour and employment sector of the country. There were cases of child labour, domestic violence, child and family neglects, land disputes among others that were handled and concluded at our clinics.

Our legal aid support services emphasized amicable means such as mediation, negotiations and reconciliation to settle clients disputes and only resorted to adjudication when amicable means failed to ensure that there is active participation of the clients in determining the outcome of their cases.

Social Protection including stopping child exploitation and livelihood support

1) OUR WORK ON CHILD PROTECTION

Child Protection interventions are under the Social Protection programming area. We focused on children at risk and those in exploitative forms of work. Our interventions sought to cause mindset change and practice, building household and business resilience to respond to child labour and ensure that the child is given alternative to child labour.

Increased community awareness to promote attitude and mindset change to protect children from abuse and exploitation

Overall this year, our multifaceted awareness campaigns reached an approximated 400,647 parents, guardians, care givers, community people and duty bearers directly and indirectly in Busoga sub region in Eastern Uganda. We used community face to face dialogues, community based radio mega platforms and radio and television stations such Apex FM in Iganga district, NBS radio located in Jinja and Eastern voice in Bugiri district and one Television awareness at BABA Television which is widely watched in Busoga Sub region. These were reached with information on children's rights, child labour, different forms of child labour, the parenting guidelines; the Legal and policy framework in line with child labour and the child protection legal frame work as well as the current trend of child labour activities in the communities within Iganga, Kaliro and Bugiri districts.

As result of the awareness, community members and local council leaders are taking pro-active steps in identifying children in child labour, reporting and withdrawing them. A case in point are the community champions of buluguyi S/C in Budunyi villag and Kapyanga S/C in Wanenga and Kaato villages together with vice chair persons and some community members following the awareness raising, they started a community champion for children who were doing child labour to go back to school by engaging the children themselves and their parents. They undertook community tours to all hot spot areas of child labour ie swamps and sugar plantations.

The media survey conducted in September 2024, found that 64% of community members that heard the awareness messages on radios are using the messages from the talk shows with majority 70% of them discussed the information with family, friends, and neighbors, raising awareness about the effects of child labor and 29% have taken actions to reduce child labor in their families, such as ensuring their own children were not involved in labor.

Household Heads now emphasize the importance of education, taking proactive steps to enrol their children in school and prioritizing paying school fees over involving children in labour activities. There has been a shift from assigning children heavy work to ensuring they attend school regularly.

Parents revealed that they are more aware of their role in stopping child labor. They monitor their children's activities closely and supporting them with school-related needs. Some parents have stopped sending their children to work and instead focus on their education.

"My way of thinking has changed. I've learned that there are jobs children should not do, which has motivated me to stay in school. Even though I'm not a child, I always encourage my younger siblings and friends in the community to stay in school and explain the value of education to them."
Male respondent from Nasuti Nambale, Iganga district

"When I see any case of child labor, I intervene, and some children and parents listen and stop their children from becoming victims of child labor. I also keep a keen eye on my own children to ensure they do not work for money in the rice plantations", Female respondent from Busowa subcounty Bugiri district.

These Action Plans were aligned to the National Action Plan to Eliminate Child Labour. Since the development and adoption of the district actions, a number of actions have been undertaken by the district stakeholders towards elimination of child labour.

Compliance Work place inspections by district labour officers

PLA facilitated the District labour officers to conduct Child labour specific work place inspections in targeted hot spot areas to ensure prevention and protection of children from exploitation within the sugar and rice supply chains in Iganga and Bugiri Districts. 8 workplace inspections (6 In Iganga and 2 in Bugiri) were conducted. The places visited were; Nakigo sugarcane plantation, Nawandala rice fields, Bulamagi rice and sugarcane farms, Nakalama sugar cane and rice farms, Iganga Industrial area targeting the rice stores and Millers. They sensitized the business owners about the dangers of child labour, the existing legal framework. In Nakigo Sub County, the labour officer rounded off a shelter harboring 21 boys (aged between 10 to 17 years) who were in sugarcane cutting and the care taker was engaged and cautioned. The 21 boys were sensitized and counselled about the dangers of child labour; the children were withdrawn and taken reunited with their parents at the expense of the person who was keeping them. It was observed in Bugiri that no children were identified in these places and business owners were encouraged not to employ children. They were urged to continue the best practice

Local governments of Iganga, Bugiri and Kaliro district taking progressive steps to strengthen legal protection against the exploitation of children

Iganga district local government was supported to have their child protection ordinance approved and gazetted by the Uganda gazette. The legislation is now ready for implementation.

The Kaliro District Local Government has finalized the drafting of the Child protection ordinance. The process has been informed by key members of the district through a series of convening's. The fair draft is ready for presentation before the Technical Planning committee of the district for their input before it is presentation to the district council.

A responsive and efficient decision-making PLA powered by the increased use of data and technology

PLA in partnership with the Ministry of Gender Labour and Social Development launched a national study

Collected current data on the knowledge, attitude and Practice on child labour in Iganga, Kaliro and Bugiri districts. This data informed our programming and engagement at the district level.

PLA was represented and participated in key national level discourses such as the National Task force trafficking in persons under the Ministry of Internal Affairs; National Steering committee on Elimination of Child Labour under the Ministry of Gender, Labour and Social Development; , National Coordination Mechanism on Migration under the Office of the Prime Minister. At these national strategic platforms, issues such as drawing strategies for the elimination of child labour, addressing trafficking in persons and ensuring streamlined migration patterns were discussed.

PLA has also participated in donor related convening and discussions held at the national level. This provided the opportunity to connect with new donors whom working relationships have been established and there are prospects of funding.

RESOURCE MOBILISATION

Secured four short project funding totaling to UGX. 122,600,000/= from Global Alliance Against Traffic?? in Women and a partner who prefers to remain anonymous to scale up and support PLA's ongoing work with workers as well as strengthen institutional resource eco-system for resilience and sustainability.

We worked with university students Makerere University, Uganda Christian University, Law Development Center among others as volunteers and internship students. These boosted the capacity of the slim staff team to deliver services to the target groups.

CHALLENGES AND FUTURE PLANS

CHALLENGES

Limited institution funding hampered with the organization ability to respond to developing issues within the labour and employment and contribute more effectively.

OUR FUTURE PLANS

Develop a new five year strategic Plan 2025- 2030 detailing our strategic intent and thematic areas of focus in our programming. In the meantime we will continue with the core mandate of promoting and protecting the rights of vulnerable and marginalized workers. We will continue with our advocacy agenda such advocacy for legal and policy reforms in the domestic work sector of Uganda; inform the ongoing reforms and review of the national employment policy, employment laws among others.

We plan to intentionally and purposefully roll out our private sector engagement strategy as a tool of locally mobilizing resources for our activities while supporting the private sector players to enhance their compliance reputation.

We plan to expand our presence in other regions like Albertine region which is currently host to workers in the oil and gas sector; Ruwenzori region with our interventions on child labour; Karamojja sub region on issues of child trafficking
